5. Important information

What is a binding death benefit nomination?

A binding death benefit nomination allows you to instruct ElectricSuper who you want your death benefit to be paid to (and in what proportions) if you die. As long as your nomination is made by completing this form, and it is valid at the time of your death, your nomination is legally binding and we must follow it.

This is true even if your circumstances or the circumstances of your beneficiaries change. If your circumstances do change, you should consider updating your binding nomination so that your benefit will be paid in line with your current wishes.

If you die without a valid nomination in place, we may consider your wishes (for example, the terms of your Will) but the Board will pay your death benefit at their discretion in line with the ElectricSuper Rules and superannuation laws. This may or may not be according to your wishes.

Who can complete a binding death benefit nomination?

Any ElectricSuper member. If you are in the defined benefit Pension Scheme (Division 3) the nomination will only apply to additional lump sum benefits, not lifetime pension benefits.

Income Stream Retirement members also have the option to nominate a Reversionary Beneficiary instead. See the website or the Reversionary Beneficiary form for more details.

How long does a binding death benefit nomination last?

A valid nomination will last 3 years from the date you sign the form. You can see the expiry date on your annual statement and in the secure area of the member website.

You can re-confirm, cancel or change your nomination before the 3 years by completing a new nomination form.

How do I change or cancel a binding death benefit nomination?

You can change your nomination at any time. Complete and submit a new binding death benefit nomination form. The new nomination will override the previous nomination.

To cancel your nomination, complete the form but leave the section 2 for beneficiary details blank.

Who can I nominate?

Your beneficiary(ies) must be your 'dependant' at the date of your death and/or your legal personal representative (that is, the executor or administrator of your estate). A dependant is:

- your spouse (including legal, de facto, same sex partner)
  - your children (including step-children, adopted children)
  - any other person who is wholly or partially financially dependent on you
  - any person with whom you have an interdependency relationship. Two people, whether or not related, have an interdependency relationship if:
    - they have a close personal relationship, and
    - they live together, or are temporarily living apart, and
    - one or each of them provides the other with financial support, and
    - one or each of them provides the other with domestic support and personal care of a level that is normally provided in the close personal relationship, rather than by mere friends or flatmates.
- or
- if 2 people have a close personal relationship but do not meet the other criteria listed above because one or both of them suffer from a physical, intellectual or psychiatric disability.

Note: a dependant for tax purposes may be different and this may affect the tax deducted from a death benefit payment.
