General information warning:

The information in this booklet is of a general nature. It is designed as a guide only and does not take your needs or situation into account. We recommend you seek financial advice before making any decisions regarding your finances.

What is an Income Stream for?

There are 2 types of Income Stream:

Retirement Income Stream

A Retirement Income Stream is for members who are retired (or are at least 65 years old) who want a place to invest their retirement savings while they draw a regular income from it.

There are risks and benefits which we'll cover in the coming pages.

Transition to Retirement Pension Income Stream

A Transition to Retirement Pension Income Stream allows people who are still working to access some of their super before they retire.

We'll talk more about the reasons someone might consider this on the Transition to Retirement Pension Income Stream pages in this booklet.

Retirement Income Stream

How does a Retirement Income Stream work?

If you have reached preservation age (see the table on the next page) and have retired from employment, or are at least 65 years old (even if you're still working), you can open a Retirement Income Stream.

You can transfer part or all of your super into a Retirement Income Stream under Division 5.

The account balance will increase with positive investment earnings, and decrease with payments you receive, fees and any negative investment earnings.

Benefits of the Retirement Income Stream

- Receive a regular income, direct to your bank account.
- Keep your money in the tax-effective super system.
- Choose your payment period (fortnightly, monthly, quarterly, half-yearly or yearly) and change the frequency online whenever you need.
- Choose your payment amount (above minimum limits) and change your pension payment amount at any time.
- Take additional lump sums from your account when you need them.
- Choose from 4 pre-mixed investment options.
- Keep track of your money and transact on the secure member website.
- If you are over 60, payments are tax-free.
- Have the cost of financial advice deducted from your account.

Risks of the Retirement Income Stream

- The money in your account may run out and payments will stop. (The pension calculator at www.moneysmart.gov.au can give you an indication of how long your pension may last.)
- There is no guarantee that your chosen investment option will achieve positive returns (and it may, in fact, achieve negative returns) which will reduce your account balance.
- Laws, ElectricSuper Rules and fees may change in the future.

How old do I need to be?

You must have reached the government's preservation age (see the table to the right).

How do I start a Retirement Income Stream?

Complete an application form (a 'Benefit Payment form') to transfer some or all of your super into a Retirement Income Stream. You can add other non-super money at the same time. See our website for options and details.

Members of Divisions 2, 4 and 5, simply transfer part or all of any lump sum benefit you are entitled to receive into a Retirement Income Stream account.

Members of Division 3 can use any lump sum benefits, such as from your Additional Voluntary Contributions, and/or elect to commute all or part of your pension to a lump sum and transfer it to a Retirement Income Stream account. We highly recommend you seek financial advice before commuting any of your pension entitlement.

Preservation age

Date of birth	Preservation age
before 01/07/1960	55
01/07/1960 - 30/06/1961	56
01/07/1961 - 30/06/1962	57
01/07/1962 - 30/06/1963	58
01/07/1963 - 30/06/1964	59
after 30/06/1964	60

What is the most I can put into a Retirement Income Stream?

A personal 'transfer balance cap' limits the amount which can be held or transferred into the retirement phase of superannuation.

The limit is reviewed annually by the Australian Government and updated periodically. Find the current personal transfer balance cap on the ATO website (www.ato.gov.au).

When does a Retirement Income Stream stop?

When your account balance falls to $1,500 or below, your account will be closed and the balance paid to you.

If you die

As a Retirement Income Stream member, you may choose to nominate a reversionary beneficiary who will be eligible to continue to receive the regular ongoing payments from your Retirement Income Stream. Your reversionary beneficiary could be your spouse, for example.

Nominating a reversionary beneficiary may save your spouse the stress of worrying about ongoing, regular income after your death as well as allowing them to keep the money in the superannuation system (which may not be possible if they were to receive your account balance as a lump sum, for example). Your reversionary beneficiary may also choose to take a lump sum if they choose.

Or, if you do not have a reversionary beneficiary, the balance in your Retirement Income Stream account will be paid according to your Binding Death Benefit Nomination (if you have a valid nomination in place with ElectricSuper at the time), or the Board will determine who receives the balance of your account.

How much can I take as regular income?

You must take a minimum amount each financial year in regular payments. The minimum is set by the government and varies with your age. Refer to our website for the current minimum rate.

There is no maximum on the amount you can take out.

You can change your regular pension amount at any time in the secure area of the website.

Payment frequency

You can choose to receive your regular payments fortnightly, monthly, quarterly, half-yearly or yearly. The payments will be made into your nominated bank account.

You can change the frequency online.

Financial advice

There are many benefits to a Retirement Income Stream. Like most things in life, however, there are also risks and this booklet doesn't take your personal circumstances or needs into consideration.

We recommend you seek advice from a licenced or appropriately authorised financial planner if you are considering acting on any information in this booklet to ensure it is appropriate for your circumstances.

Transition to Retirement Pension Income Stream

The ElectricSuper Transition to Retirement Pension Income Stream (or 'TRP') allows members who are over preservation age (see the table on the next page), but not yet retired, to receive a supplementary income while continuing to work.

There are a few reasons you might consider taking out a TRP:

1. By moving some or all of your super into a TRP, you could reduce your working hours and supplement your reduced wages with payments from your TRP, with minimal impact on your take-home pay.

OR

2. Make additional pre-tax contributions (salary sacrifice) to your super, with or without reducing your working hours, and supplement your reduced income while your taxable salary is reduced by the salary sacrifice and, with it, the amount that is taxed at your marginal PAYG tax rate.

OR

3. Use a retribution strategy and move money from a taxable status to a tax-free status if your super is to be inherited by your adult children (or other non-tax dependants). A retribution strategy may also increase your eligibility for Centrelink benefits in some situations.

Learn more about Transition to Retirement and Retention in our quick videos

www.electricsuper.au/resources/videos

Whether a TRP will be advantageous to you, and how you should use it, will be determined by your personal circumstances. We recommend you speak to a financial planner in relation to your situation.

Benefits of the Transition to Retirement Pension Income Stream

- Receive a regular income, direct to your bank account.
- The opportunity to reduce your working hours and supplement your take-home pay with payments from the TRP.
- The opportunity to make additional pre-tax (salary sacrifice) contributions to your super, with or without reducing your hours, while your take-home pay is supplemented by payments from the TRP, potentially reducing the tax you pay.
- The opportunity to commence a retribution strategy.
- Choose your payment period (fortnightly, monthly, quarterly, half-yearly or yearly) and change the frequency online whenever you need.
- Choose your payment amount (within limits) and change your pension payment amount at any time.
- Keep your money in the tax-effective super system.
- Choose from 4 pre-mixed investment options.
- Access to keep track of your money and transact on the secure member website.
- If you are over 60, payments are tax-free.
- Though you will pay income tax on the payments you receive from the TRP if you are under 60, a portion of your payments may be tax free and you'll receive a 15% tax offset on the taxable portion.
- Investment earnings are taxed at 15%.

Risks of the TRP Income Stream

- The money in your account may run out and payments will stop. (The pension calculator at www.moneysmart.gov.au can give you an indication of how long your pension may last.)
- There is no guarantee that your chosen investment option will achieve positive returns (and it may, in fact, achieve negative returns) which will reduce your account balance.
- Laws, ElectricSuper Rules and fees may change in the future.

How old do I need to be?

You must have reached the government's preservation age:

Preservation age

Date of birth	Preservation age
before 01/07/1960	55
01/07/1960 - 30/06/1961	56
01/07/1961 - 30/06/1962	57

01/07/1963 - 30/06/1964	59
after 30/06/1964	60

No lump sum withdrawals

You cannot withdraw lump sums except in specific circumstances. See our website for details.

Financial advice

There are many benefits to a TRP Income Stream. Like most things in life, however, there are also risks and this booklet doesn't take your personal circumstances or needs into consideration.

We recommend you seek advice from a licenced or appropriately authorised financial planner if you are considering acting on any information in this booklet to ensure it is appropriate for your circumstances.

Minimum and maximum payments

You must take a minimum amount each financial year in regular payments. The minimum is set by the government and varies with your age. Refer to the ElectricSuper website for the current minimums.

Your total payments each financial year must be 10% or less of the value of your TRP balance at the start of the financial year (or your opening balance in the first year of your TRP). This maximum limit applies until you retire or you meet other conditions, such as turning 65.

Near the end of each financial year, we will advise you of your minimum and maximum payments for the next year.

You can change your pension amount at any time in the secure area of the website.

Payment frequency

You can choose to receive your regular payment fortnightly, monthly, quarterly, half-yearly or yearly. The payments will be made into your nominated bank account.

You can change the frequency online.

How do I set up a TRP?

Division 5 (Accumulation Scheme) members

Complete an application form (a 'Benefit Payment form') to transfer some or all of your super to a TRP account (from which pension payments are drawn). Your super contributions will continue to be paid into your existing Division 5 account, which continues to operate as normal.

Division 2, 3 and 4 (defined benefit scheme) members

If you have $30,000 or more of additional voluntary contributions and/or rollover amounts, you can transfer these amounts to a TRP account in Division 5.

Your remaining defined benefit entitlements would continue unaffected in your current Division, and any such transfer would not require approval from your employer.

Retirement while taking a TRP

When you retire, you can choose to convert your TRP to a Retirement Income Stream.

Nomination of beneficiaries

Reversionary beneficiary

A reversionary beneficiary is only available to Retirement Income Stream members. This must be your spouse. In the event of your death, your spouse has the option to continue receiving your income stream as ongoing regular payments, to take it as a lump sum, or a combination of both.

If you die with a TRP, your benefit will be paid out determined by the arrangements you have in place for your other ElectricSuper account.

If you do not make a nomination, your benefit will be paid out at the ElectricSuper Board's discretion.

You can make a nomination or change or cancel your nomination at any time.

Binding death beneficiary

A binding death beneficiary is available to both Retirement Income Stream and Transition to Retirement Pension Income Stream members.

You may nominate one or more eligible beneficiaries who will receive your income stream balance as a lump sum in the event of your death. This can include your 'legal personal administrator' (your executor or administrator) who will distribute the lump sum through your estate, in line with your will, or in line with the laws of intestacy if you die without a valid will.

Access the forms to nominate a Reversionary Beneficiary or a Binding Death Beneficiary on our website.
